

TIGERS IN ORANGE BOWL

Dr. Poole Elected Land-Grant Head

Dr. R. F. Poole, president of Clemson College, was named president of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities at the annual meeting of the association which was held November 13-16. The meetings were held at the Statler Hotel in Washington.

Dr. Poole succeeds Arthur S. Adams of New Hampshire. The land-grant association is composed of fifty-two members. It includes members from each of the forty-eight states and Puerto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska.

Dr. Poole has served on the executive committee of the association for the past four years. He also served as chairman of the committee in charge of land-grant institutions for Negroes. Dr. Poole will retain his post as trustee of the national 4-H Club Foundation. Others from Clemson who attended the land-grant association meetings were: Dr. H. P. Cooper, dean of the school of agriculture; Dr. F. M. Kihard, dean of the school of arts and sciences; Dr. J. H. Sams, acting dean of the school of engineering; Dr. H. J. Webb, chairman of the graduate committee; D. W. Watkins, director of the Clemson Extension Service; and T. W. Morgan, assistant director of the Clemson Extension Service.

Episcopal Women Sponsor Bazaar

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church will hold a bazaar in the Parish House from 4:00 until 8:00 p. m. on Friday, December 1. The bazaar will feature the sale of food and toys. In addition, a number of miscellaneous gifts, knitted wear, and plants, will be offered for sale. Mrs. Virginia A. Jackson, president of the Auxiliary, also stated that a fortune teller will be on hand for the children and that a "Fish Pond" and candy booth will be provided for the young visitors.

New Tank Being Built On Hotel Hill

A new water tank is now being built on Hotel Hill. The 200,000 gallon tank is being built to replace the old tank which has been in use since 1893. The new tank is being built by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company of Birmingham.

Arc Welding Design Contest Announced

The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio, has announced that awards totaling over six thousand dollars will be made for the best papers on arc welding design, maintenance, fabrication or research written this year.

All resident engineering undergraduates registered in any college offering a degree in any branch of engineering (including agricultural and architectural) are eligible to participate. The dates for the competition have been extended this year to include one entire year, June 1, 1950, to May 31, 1951.

The purpose of these awards is to encourage the study of design for arc welding and arc welding technology with its economics, through the preparation of papers by students of engineering. Awards range from $1,000 to $25 for students and duplicate awards in scholarship funds will be made to the schools in which the main award winners are enrolled. The foundation states that it is not necessary to know how to weld or to be enrolled in a course studying some phase of welding in order to be eligible to participate. Rules for the program and other information can be secured by writing to A. F. Davis, Secretary, James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland 1, Ohio.

Catholics Hold Inquiry Classes

A special inquiry class is now in progress at Newman Hall of St. Andrews Catholic Church. The class is conducted by the Paulist Fathers. The purpose of the meetings is to give an explanation of beliefs and practices of the Catholic Church. The meetings are held weekly from eight to nine p. m. on Tuesdays. The Fathers have invited the public to attend the classes and to ask questions.

The Tiger's bruising All-American candidate, fullback Fred Cone, is pictured as he churns down field toward another score in last Saturday's Auburn game which the Tigers won 41-0. Cone is being helped along by center Joe Bryant (73).

Architecture Club Is Organized

High School Speech Class To Give Plays

The speech class of Calhoun-Clemson High School will present the first group of three one-act plays for the 1950-51 season in the high school auditorium on December 8. The plays will begin at eight p. m.

The group consists of "The Romanians," which is a romantic comedy; "A Daughter of the Gods," which is a teen-age play; and "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'clock," which is a comedy.

Advance tickets may be obtained from members of the high school speech class. Ticket prices are fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for students.

Newman Club Attends Communion Sunday; Breakfast Be Served

The members of the Clemson College Newman Club, a club for all Catholic students, will receive Holy Communion in a body at the ten o'clock Mass on Sunday, December 3. Immediately after the Mass, breakfast will be served to the members of the club in Newman Hall by the Catholic Women's Club of St. Andrew's parish.

The guest speaker at the communion breakfast will be Professor John O'Connell of the school of architecture. Professor O'Connell, who is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, will speak on "The Secret of the School Spirit of Notre Dame." The member of the Knights of Columbus at Clemson will also receive communion at the ten o'clock Mass Sunday morning.

The Architecture Club of Clemson was organized at a meeting held on Monday night, November 20. The meeting was held in the Iptay Tavern of the Clemson House. Professor J. G. O'Connell was instrumental in the organization of the club.

Professor Maurice Barrett gave a talk on the "Gardens of France." A movie of the Clemson-Furman football game was also shown at the meeting. Officers for the new club were elected. They are: president, L. L. McMillan, senior of Spartanburg; vice-president, H. D. Boykin, junior of Boykin; secretary, M. F. Snoddy, freshman of Rockingham, North Carolina; treasurer, H. W. Hughes of Martinez, Georgia.

Following the business session, refreshments of donuts and coffee were served. All of the professors in the architecture department were present at the meeting.

The purpose of the new club is to promote a closer social relationship between the students themselves and members of the faculty of the architecture department.

Any student registered as an architecture or architectural engineering student is eligible for membership in the club, without regard for scholastic standing.

The Architecture Club of Clemson will meet twice monthly at a time and place to be selected by the members.

Clemson Garden Club To Meet December 11

The Clemson Garden Club will meet on Monday, December 11. The program for the afternoon will consist of a tour of homes where Christmas decorations will be shown.

Wesley Foundation Host To Deputation

A deputation from Anderson College was entertained at the regular meeting of the Wesley Wesley Foundation on Wednesday evening, November 29, at seven p. m.

The girls from Anderson presented the worship program. Following the program, refreshments were served.

Miss Dot Wilder was in charge of the deputation from Anderson.

Discussion Be Held On Job Opportunities

Mr. C. A. Meares, Personnel Training Officer of the Soil Conservation Service, Southeastern Region, will be in the agricultural auditorium at 4:00 p. m. on Monday, December 15 to acquaint prospective graduates with job opportunities with the various bureaus of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Civil Service Commission will announce on December 12 examinations for junior agricultural assistants. It is this announcement that Mr. Meares wishes to present to interested students. While Mr. Meares is representing the United States Department of Agriculture, he has had experience with many phases of the work of the Civil Service Commission and will be glad to answer questions about other programs and announcements of the Commission.

Mr. Meares is a graduate of Clemson College in the Class of 1929.

Clemson To Meet Miami In New Year's Day Classic

By Charles Meiburg, Sports Editor, THE TIGER

Clemson's powerful unbeaten Tigers have been named to oppose the University of Miami in the 17th annual Orange Bowl to be played in Miami on January 1, 1951.

The announcement of Clemson's selection came Monday night after a day of anxious waiting in Tigertown.

Both teams have yet to lose a game, but both squads have been tied—Clemson by South Carolina, and Miami by the University of Louisville.

Earlier Monday, Clemson's highly regarded eleven learned they were in serious contention for a bid to the Sugar Bowl. However, this spot went to Oklahoma, leaving the colorful Country Gentlemen with the Orange Bowl invitation.

The game will mark Clemson's third post season bowl engagement, their second in the past three years. In the 1940 Cotton Bowl, the Tigers upset favored Boston College, 6-3, and two years ago, the Bengals edged the University of Missouri 24-23 in the 1949 Gator Bowl.

Likewise, Miami will enter the bowl with two previous post-season tilts behind them. Both games were in the Orange Bowl. In 1936, the Hurricane opened the 17 year old series with a 27-0 win over Bucknell. Then ten years later, Miami defeated Holy Cross, 13-6.

Thus, two teams, both unbeaten in regular season play (Miami concludes their season against Missouri Friday night), both unbeaten in bowl competition, are matched in one of the most lucrative bowls in the nation.

With the Orange Bowl picture complete, the whole major bowl situation seems to have cleared. Kentucky (10-1) will take on Oklahoma (9-0) in the Sugar Bowl. Texas (7-1) is host to Tennessee (9-1) in the Cotton Bowl, and California (9-0-1) and Michigan (5-3-1) meet in the Rose Bowl.

Methodists Plan To Hold Yuletide Feast

Dr. Masters To Speak At Conference On Sex Sponsored By B. S. U.

Dr. E. Walter Masters will be the main speaker at a conference to be held in the club room of the Clemson Baptist Church on December 1 and 2. Dr. Masters is a physician of Columbia.

The conference will concern "Christianity and Life." The main topic of discussion will be "Christianity and Sex." The purpose of the conference is to give the student a better understanding of his sexual capacities and instincts, and the Christian attitude towards sex.

Dr. Masters was born in Anderson. He received his B. S. degree at the University of South Carolina and his M. D. degree at Vanderbilt University. Dr. Masters spent thirteen months in France. He was later Chief of Officers' Medical Section in the Oliver General Hospital in Augusta, Georgia. A member and a deacon of the First Baptist Church of Columbia, he has been in private practice since July of 1946. The conference is sponsored by the Clemson B. S. U. Sessions will be held at seven p. m. on December 1 and at two and seven p. m. on December 2.

Clemson Methodist married students and their wives will have a Christmas banquet at eight o'clock on December 15. The banquet will be held in the social hall of the Methodist church.

Committee chairmen for the banquet have been named. They are: Maxie Burch, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. J. W. Moore, chairman of the food committee; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dodgen, co-chairmen of the decorations committee; Mrs. R. G. Wilson, chairman of the dishes committee.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clapp, co-chairmen of the clean-up committee; Al Blessing, chairman of the tables committee; and Billy McMillan, chairman of the ticket committee. Tickets may be obtained from the office of the Methodist Church.

Clemson Glee Club To Sing For Local Club

Clemson's Glee Club will present the program at the December meeting of the Clemson Woman's Club. The meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, December 7, at 4:30 p. m. in the Parish House of the Episcopal Church.

Clemson Graduate Dies In Honduras

William O. Lupo, agronomy graduate of the class of 1929 and an employee of the United Fruit Company in Honduras, died September 24. He was a native of Lakeview, South Carolina, and had been employed by the United Fruit Company since 1929.

Mr. Lupo served in various capacities after taking his first job as timekeeper. On April 1, 1949, he was assigned to special duties under the superintendent of agriculture where he was serving at the time of his death.

Lupo was married to the former Mary Coello Diaz. They had three daughters. Janet is attending school in the states. Betty and Maria Marta are in Lima.

Little Theatre Announces First Production Of Year; 'Berkeley Square' To Be Given

The Clemson College Little Theatre will present its first full length play of the year, "Berkeley Square," on Monday and Tuesday nights, December 18 and 19 at 8:30. The play is under the direction of Professor R. E. Ware and will be presented in the College Chapel.

"Berkeley Square" is a three-act comedy written by John L. Balderston. It is about Peter Standish, who, living in the twentieth century, goes back to the eighteenth century.

Chuch Chalker takes the male lead as Peter Standish. Chuck, who has been with the Little Theatre for three years, graduated from Clemson in August and is now working in Greer. He is living on the campus. Since becoming a member of the Little Theatre, he has been in a series of one-act plays, Arsenic and Old Lace," and "The Male Animal."

Nancy Brock, the maid, is a newcomer to the Little Theatre. She is a sophomore at Calhoun-Clemson High School, and has been in several plays there. She also appeared in "The Empty Shoes."

Mary Russell Eleazer takes the part of Kate Pettigrew. She has had four years experience with the Little Theatre.

Margaret Poole makes her second appearance in a Little Theatre production. She also appeared in "The Empty Shoes."

Anita Gates is another newcomer to the local stage. She had the leading part in "Our Town" at the University of North Carolina. She also had leading parts in two musicals while there.

Joe Lipton, pre-medicine senior of Beaufort, gives his first theatre performance at Clemson in "Berkeley Square."

Joe Young, who plays the part of the ambassador, has had previous acting experience with the Baylor University Little Theatre. He appeared in "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" earlier this season. He has also been in "Arsenic and Old Lace," "The Male Animal," and "Dear Ruth."

Alan Cannon, a freshman from Anderson, makes his second local appearance in "Berkeley Square." He was in "If Men Played Cards as Women Do."

Mrs. Ardis Anderson has been in high school plays, and community plays in St. Paul, Minnesota. She has appeared in such plays as "Angel Street" and "As You Like It."

Polly Lowery appeared with the Washington and Lee Troubadours. In addition to acting in a number of Little Theatre productions, Polly directed "Dear Ruth."

John Gates, head of the school of architecture, is a newcomer to the theatre.

Charles Smith acted in Pendleton High School plays. He also has been in state declamation contests and the Goodgion Contest.

Kathryn Wray makes her first appearance as the Dutchess of Devonshire. She is from Clemson.

Charles Morgan, head of the poultry department, has done local theatre work for several years. He returns to the stage in "Berkeley Square."

Writer Praises Team; Hits School Spirit; Comments On Mess Hall

By Grady Daniel

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE TEAM!

Well, troops, it seems that for the first time in quite a while I'm without words. That is, to be putting it bluntly, however, I do have a few things that I'd like to mention. It's been said that when no other subject prevails, the weather is always available to comment about, so I'd like to say a few words about it, not in connection with everyone being cold, but in conjunction with the football team.

As you all know, it was right "coolish" over the holidays, especially down at Auburn, and I imagine the Tigers (Clemson Tigers) got pretty chilly. They must have cause I had on three pairs of socks, two pairs of pants, and a sweater and a jacket, not to mention the pajamas I also wore under the rest of the garments, and I still shivered. Nevertheless, old man winter didn't stop our Tigers. With their "long handles" to keep their legs warm, they drove right on.

Perhaps this subject is not in my department, but still I'd like to let you know that we, the troops of Clemson Agricultural College, Clemson, South Carolina, are behind you. You are a Great Team! And I say the word "team" not in the sense of just a football team, but one that cooperates and works together like an IBM machine.

Let me say in behalf of all Clemson supporters, including myself, that your teamwork throughout this year has been splendid. I think that if more people in this world could work together as you have done, that it might be a better place in which to live. May your days on this old earth be many and each one pleasant. You're our team!

SCHOOL SPIRIT OF SPIRITS

While I'm on the subject of Auburn, I think it only appropriate that the Clemson students and all concerned be pooped in on a little school spirit. Don't get me wrong now, I'm not saying that we don't have any school spirit. Maybe our spirit is not what it should be, but it isn't entirely our fault. Down at Auburn they go all out for Homecoming; such elaborate displays as you never have seen before, mind you I said displays, too. Each fraternity house on the campus had its own display located in front of the house, some of them covering the entire front. We don't have any fraternity houses but we do have barracks.

Then you say, "Where does the money for these elaborate decorations come from?" That's just it. I don't know, but a prize is offered for the most unique display, a worthwhile prize that would merit all time and effort put into their making. All that we do at Homecoming every year is to hang a few dinky streamers from the barracks windows, or maybe some industrious companies have banners painted. Why couldn't each company or barracks make up displays to be dispersed around the campus welcoming our old grads or realistic cartoons concerning our opponents? Maybe if some organization or person would offer an honorable prize or something, these companies and barracks would be inspired to compete.

For example. Out in front of one of the fraternity houses was a large sign about the size of the one on the Anderson highway advertising Vim Herb. Painted on the left hand margin of the sign were a few scores of the previous Auburn-Clemson game and in the middle was the picture of a crying babe (a youngun that is). At the bottom of the sign were these words: "It's time to change!"

This is just one of their many but perhaps it will do to illustrate my point about displays. They also had a Homecoming parade, with a few floats and clowns; this would also be good. Our possibilities in this line would be unlimited if we only had the proper backing.

SOME EAT ON TIME, SOME DON'T!

During weekends I have noticed that eating facilities in the mess hall have not been up to par. Somehow it seems that there never are enough places provided for the students that remain. Could it be that they don't fill out the pink slips that are on their tables or inefficiency on the part of the mess hall officials? I wonder?

I've also seen some of the slips on different tables in the mess hall that haven't been filled out. Perhaps this is one cause. If it is, and if we expect to get anything to eat over the weekends, us poor, unfortunates that don't rate, we must fill out these slips. If we wanted to eat in the Stork Club in New York we wouldn't go there without making reservations, if we could afford it that is. I realize that the mess hall is no Stork Club, but still if we want to eat there over the weekend we should let them know. If we don't inform them how can we expect them to provide adequate seating arrangements?

Now, if the mess hall has anything to do with our not being able to find seats, we hope that you will also try to improve these conditions. If you have a solution to this problem, I'm sure that everyone would cooperate if you would only let them know "why". You know some of us "eat to live instead of living to eat!"

A New Mascot Idea; Barracks Are Dusty; More Travel Time Needed

By "Doc" Baker

A "TRUE TRUE" TIGER

While glancing through a Knoxville, Tenn., newspaper recently, I noticed a picture of a forty pound wildcat in a cage. It was the mascot for the University of Kentucky and was brought down to Knoxville for the big game against Tennessee. We've all heard of Navy's goat and Army's mule. It would be a notorious incident if people left a football game saying they had seen Clemson's mascot, a live tiger.

Of course, the main problem would be getting the ferocious beast. This would be a good deed by an individual club or by one that all the students were eligible for, such as IPOAX. In the IPOAX case, increase the membership twenty-five cents a year, letting the extra change go into a fund to get the animal and provide him with the necessities of life.

The problem of having a carnivorous cat around the campus could be eliminated by trading the monster at intervals for a younger one. In this manner, the local citizens wouldn't live in constant fear of being preyed upon by a terrible tiger that broke out of his cage.

Besides, wouldn't it be fun to give the Tiger indignation by feeding him chicken before the Carolina game? Furthermore, if some ardent Gamecock fan got peeved because a Country Gentleman plucked a rooster's tailfeathers, he could have the liberty of entering the cage and twisting the tiger's tail.

ONE DAY ISN'T ENOUGH

The regular football season has ended, but for Clemson the undefeated season will be climaxed in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day. If it's at all possible, every man at Clemson will attend the affair. Some won't make it, but a few, like myself, couldn't be held away by anchoring.

That's well and good, that's the spirit, that's our team, and those are our holidays that end at 2200 hours on January 2, 1951. After inquiries, I find that Miami is more than 800 miles from the foot of the Blue Ridge section. Those students who make the trip are going to be terribly pushed to make the deadline on the weekend return.

The situation requires some adjustment. This adjustment is due now, not the day before we leave. The ones going have to make travel plans, and those who are planning to work during the off-days are compelled to let their prospective employers know the score on Christmas holidays.

One solution would be to have the Yule vacation begin and end a day later than originally planned. At any rate, preparations have to be made now!

3200 PER HOUR

Some of the boys in bacteriology at Clemson found that approximately 3,200 bacteria fell from the atmosphere in each square foot of the room. That is, they fell at a rate of 3,200 per hour. I'm glad they conducted the experiment in a comparatively clean room rather than one polluted with dust like those in the first and second barracks.

It would be next to impossible to keep all the dust out of the barracks, but the accumulation rate in Johnston and Simpson Halls gives every indication that the reverse impossibility is taking place. One day some cadet is going to plant a turnip patch on his table. It isn't because he doesn't have the soil, it's a lack of seed preventing the incident. The result of all this dust and dirt is that we're the only students in the world who have air passages with clay linings.

The dust problem could and should be alleviated; does anyone have a workable remedy?

Dr. Poole

Sometimes Clemson students decide that their Alma Mater is lacking in national prestige. Then along comes something that makes them realize that Clemson is one of the nation's outstanding institutions.

For instance, Dr. R. F. Poole was recently elected president of the Land-Grant Colleges in America. Whether we are aware of it or not, it is an honor for Clemson and a great compliment to Dr. Poole.

Things like this, almost as much as scholastic excellence, really enhance the value of a Clemson diploma. National recognition of our President is bound to be reflected on us.

We are indeed proud of Dr. Poole.

Ray, Team!

We want to add our congratulations to the flood of others received by the Tiger team.

We felt all along that the Tigers had what it takes, and they have justified our faith. The Orange Bowl is another feather in Clemson's cap.

The team's success is due, of course, to their own skill and that of the coaching staff, but we feel that the support of the alumni and the student body has helped, too. It takes all kinds to make a bowl team—all kinds of support. It takes the willing support of all concerned.

We wonder how much enthusiasm the "supporters" would have had if our team had lost a few games this season.

Anyway, it's OUR team this year, Coach!

Predictions For Final Grid Week

By Doc Baker and Harold Owen

The last week of football comes around this weekend, and we are having difficulty finding enough games to put into print. Still, we managed to find nineteen on schedule.

Nevertheless, don't think that this is the last appearance for the prognosticators, we'll be back with some bowl predictions as soon as the various bowl officials and schools can decide upon who goes where to play whom. Let's begin with the game that is probably the biggest grudge game in the world.

Army over Navy—After such a rough schedule this year, the Cadets will win this one by a score of 27-7.

Alabama over Auburn—The Crimson Tide is gunning for a bowl bid. They'll probably shoot the works and come out on the better end of a 28-0 affair.

Oklahoma over Oklahoma A&M—The Sooners have decided to appear in New Orleans on New Year's Day, consequently, we don't think the grudge will tend to increase the score. Perhaps the Aggies can hold the scoring down to the tune of 47-13.

Georgia over Georgia Tech—The Bulldogs have the honor of attending the President's Cup. All we can say is we're glad they look upon it as an honor. Having all this glory down in Athens should enable them to get by the battered wreck by a score of 21-7.

Miami over Missouri—This will be one of the roughest games of the year for the unbeaten Hurricanes. Remember a little team from Louisville held them to a 13-13 tie. With all the Orange Juice hanging in the balance, the boys in the deep south should come out on the better end to the tune of 27-14.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Just for old time's sake, we pick the Irish to win this one by a 20-13 score.

Tennessee over Vanderbilt—The General and his Volunteers don't have any do or die pressure on them, they'll win by a 34-7 count.

Texas over Texas A&M—By virtue of winning the title in the Southwest Conference, the Longhorns don't have to worry about a post-season game, but if we know anything about the rivalry between the two schools, they're playing a bruising game. Don't look for a one-sided affair as the University men triumph 33-25.

Rice over Baylor—Another Texas grudge game. The Owls should end their season in a hard fought fracas by a score of 28-21.

North Carolina over Virginia—The enthusiastic spirit at Chapel Hill must be down this year. Mr. Snavely will probably try to boost it in this game as the Tarheels tap out a victory dance to the tune of 14-7.

A quick run-down finds: Holy Cross over Boston College Fordham over Syracuse Tulsa over Houston Tulane over LSU Mississippi over Mississippi State Maryland over VPI William and Mary over Richmond St. Mary's over Villanova SMU over Texas Christian.

Notice—Students Going To Bowl

Ticket Manager Walter Cox said today that he would announce the first of next week a plan whereby students could purchase tickets to the Orange Bowl. Students have been asked to wait for this announcement before trying to secure tickets.

All tickets, students included, will cost $6.13.

Trailing The Tiger

"Recently a sixth grade teacher, of the local elementary school, held a test for her pupils. The class is interested in current events, and the question to be answered by the pupils was, 'Name 10 of the most outstanding people in the United States.' The answers listed the following: Harry Truman, General MacArthur, Gabriel Heater, Billy Hair, Jimmy Byrnes, Roy Rogers, Bing Crosby, Charlie Justice, Gene Autrey, General George C. Marshall, Bill Stern. Fame seems, according to these answers, to depend upon many things."

DID YOU KNOW THAT . . . ???

Clemson's 40-0 victory over Auburn Saturday was the Tiger's twenty-sixth win in their last thirty decisions. The series include two long winning streaks—one which began in 1947 and lasted for fifteen games and the present string of twelve games without a setback. Two ties last year and one this season are not included.

Clemson's Cone 2nd In Conference

Clemson's All-America candidate, Fred Cone, finished the 1950 football season at the top of the list of the state scorers. He was edged out of first place in the Conference scoring parade by Walt Michaels of Washington and Lee.

Cone scored 24 points in last week's game with Auburn to boost his total to 86 points. Michaels scored 25 points in the Thanksgiving classic between W&L and Richmond to up his total to 89. Although Michaels leads in the scoring, Clemson's powerful fullback has scored more touchdowns. Michaels has obtained many of his points by conversions.

Clemson Climbs To 10th According To AP Survey

Tigers Reach Highest Position Of Year; Oklahoma Cops First; Miami Fifteenth

The final Associated Press polls found Clemson's Tigers climbing into tenth place. This is the highest position attained by the Bengals this year and climaxed a steady climb since their tie with South Carolina.

The Howard-coached charges received nine first-place votes which helped them garner a total of 374.

Oklahoma was in the high place with a substantial lead over Army, their nearest rival.

Two teams were dropped from the first ten due to upsets. Ohio State lost to Michigan and Illinois was defeated by Northwestern.

Tennessee took over the fourth position by virtue of their win from Kentucky. Although they received eleven more first choices than Texas, Tennessee was 182 points behind.

The polls were conducted as before, a first place selection being good for ten points. (First-place votes in parenthesis.)

FIRST TEN:	Points Rec.
1. Oklahoma (213)	2,963 9-0-0

Country Gentlemen Roll To 41-0 Win Over Auburn

With Charles Meiburg

HATS OFF TO...

TO THE CHEERLEADERS, one of the most alert band of pepsters ever to lead yells for the Country Gentlemen. Led by Ted Cochran, the cheerleaders have introduced many new yells this year and have gradually built up a fine cheering section. They have attended all games except the Boston and Missouri tilts, and pepped up the team with stirring yells. Only at Auburn, where a lack of supporters and below freezing temperatures hindered operations, was the cheering not up to par.

The cheerleaders also introduced a card section at Clemson. The first time such a stunt was attempted, at the Furman game, it was a success. Many compliments have been received on the card section so far, and this year's pepsters deserve much of the credit for attempting this plan. So, hats off to an alert, peppy band of cheerleaders, one of the best Clemson has ever had!

BASKETBALL BEGINS

With the close of the football season, except for the various bowls, basketball becomes the topic of conversation among sports lovers. This year with a fairly light schedule and good material, Clemson Coach Banks McFadden will field a fast quintet. Only two members of last year's team are gone, W. A. Holshouser and Jim Reynolds. However, these two will not be sorely missed. For about fifteen men are up from the crack freshman squad of last year which lost only one game.

Despite many comments that Clemson has a light schedule (18 games), the Tigers play several Conference powerhouses. Wake Forest, South Carolina, and George Washington are among these. Perhaps with a good season this year, Clemson will be able to secure top Conference quintets, thus rebuilding the Tiger's lost prestige.

THE MAIL BAG

Recently, I received a letter from a Clemson supporter down Orangeburg way. Now I would like to pass it along to you.

"Dear Sir:

Clemson has beaten the two best teams in the Southern Conference this year.

Clemson beat N. C. State decisively, who in turn beat Maryland (who was supposed to be the best at the start of the season).

Clemson beat Wake Forest, who has beaten both Duke and the University of North Carolina.

So it can't be said that the unbeaten Tigers haven't played the best teams in the Southern Conference.

Would you print this in your paper and send Mr. Snake—I mean Jake Penland a copy?

Yours very truly,

(Signed) John Rowel"

Mr. Penland's copy will soon be on its way, special delivery.

Also I received from a Walterboro druggist, Joe Mole, a clipping from the Walterboro Press and Standard. The excerpt follows:

Cone Winds Up Career With Brilliant Performance; Hair, Smith Also Star

Clemson's bowl-bound Tigers put on one of their greatest shows of football magic last Saturday in shellacking winless but spunky Auburn 41-0. In winning this game Coach Howard's lads handed the Alabama Tigers their first Homecoming defeat in history.

The Country Gentleman scored almost at will and completely sewed up the offensive attack of the Plainsmen. Billy Hair and Fred Cone led the Tiger's scoring parade with the Walterboro tailback galloping across the double stripes twice, and the big fullback plunging across four times. Hair carried the ball 11 times for 82 yards and completed five of 13 arials for 71 yards. Cone rushed 33 times, netting 163 yards or an average of 5.1 yards per try. Ray Mathews, playing for the first time since he was injured in the Wake Forest game, amassed 58 yards in 3 attempts.

Massive Wyndie Wyndham probably played his greatest game on defense this year, including the Missouri game. Wyndie was a terror to the Auburn ball carriers who couldn't seem to steer out of his way. Tackle Bob Patton also played superbly on defense.

Glenn Smith, definitely the best end in the Southern Conference, made some near impossible catches even with three Auburn defenders guarding him. The scoring came in drives of 93, 60, 57, 80, 63, 50 yards with the Country Gentlemen using almost every play in the book in baffling the Auburn defense. The longest play of the day was a 37 yard pass from Jackie Calvert to Glenn Smith.

Clemson scored the second time they got their hands on the ball. An Auburn punt set the Tigers back on their own seven yard marker, but with Furious Freddie alternating with the other backs on every other play the visitors marched up field to score. Cone rammed over from the one yard line immediately after Auburn had been charged with interference at that point. Radcliff booted the extra point and Clemson led, 7-0.

At the beginning of the second quarter End Dreher Gaskins recovered a Plainsman fumble on the South Carolinians' 40-yard line to set up the next counter. In two plays the Tigers covered 52 of the 60 yards and in three more attempts Cone rammed over from the two. Radcliff converted and the Tigers led, 14-0.

The Plainsmen still could not find the key to the Carolinians' defense, and after trying three futile plays kicked to the Clemson 43.

At this point Hair replaced Calvert at tailback. Auburn took over when the Howardmen were not able to pick up enough yardage on a fourth down attempt, but fumbled on the play. Peter Cook fell on the ball on the Alabama's 44.

In six plays the Tigs covered the 44 yards, with Cone going over from the one foot line. Radcliff converted and the Tigers led, 21-0.

The two teams exchanged punts at the start of the period. Auburn made their longest drive of the game, covering 49 yards, but this was abruptly ended by a pass interception by Pete Cook.

The Tigers then proceeded to score their fourth touchdown. The counter came as a result of a 27 yard passing play from Mathews to Cone. Radcliff missed the conversion, and the Tigers led 27-0.

The Country Gentlemen took the next Auburn punt on their own 35 and marched for their fifth touchdown. Cone and Hair ran the ball to the Auburn five in five plays where Hair shirtd end for the necessary ground to hit paydirt. Radcliff converted and the Tigers lead mounted to 34-0.

The Carolinians scored again the next time they received the ball. The Tigers took over after Auburn's McGowen punted out on the mid-field stripe.

The drive was temporarily halted by a squabble on the field, but order was quickly restored with no one being penalized. Hair climaxed the 50 yard march with a four yard dash around end. Radcliff converted and the Tigers led, 41-0.

Neither team was able to threaten too seriously for the remainder of the fourth quarter and the game ended with the House of Howard winning their eighth game, 41-0.

Tig Quintet Opens Season Friday

Wake Forest Provides Opening Game For 1951 Edition Of Bengal Courtmen

Coach Banks McFadden and his hoopsters will blow the lid off the Tiger's basketball schedule this Friday when they meet the powerful Demon Deacons of Wake Forest at Asheville, N. C., in an exhibition tilt. The Tigers will cruise over to Enka, N. C., to play Enka Mills on Saturday.

Coach McFadden said that he planned to start Doug Haugk and Bummy Townsend at forwards, Ronny Richardson at center, and John Snee and Joe Murray at guards in the Wake game. Murray is the only newcomer to the starting lineup, the rest being lettermen.

The Tig basketballers also have in reserve lettermen Jack Neal and George Spender, as well as the holdovers from last year's terrific freshman contingent, including big John McGraw, Marvin Robinson, Ames Wells, Tom McColough, Bill DeLoache, Vernon Moorer, and Bill Revell.

The head man said that the team does not have as much speed as last year's squad, but he hopes that the situation would improve before the season progressed very far.

The team has plenty of height but lacks experience to go with this height.

The squad started practicing on Nov. 8 and has been working steadily since then. The players all are in good spirits, and all want to better their last year's record of ten wins and the same number of losses, perhaps getting a bid to the Southern Conference tournament.

Only W. A. Holshouser and Jim Reynolds were lost from last year's team, but finding a substitute for Reynolds' speed is the team's main worry.

The Schedule:
Dec. 1 Wake Forest at Asheville, N. C.
Dec. 2 Enka Mills at Enka, N. C.
Dec. 9 Presbyterian College at Clinton
Dec. 14 Georgia at Athens, Ga.
Dec. 18 Georgia at Athens, Ga.
